

LEWIS FORCES STRIKE DEMANDS

Now A Captain

CAPT. R. E. MICHALKA

Capt. R. E. Michalka has been promoted in rank again effective June 1, 1943, coming up from his rank of First Lieutenant to that of Captain to register new progress in the commissioned personnel of the Army.

Capt. Michalka, born and reared in Cameron, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Michalka. He is now stationed at Fort Ethan Allen, Vermont in the 92nd Ordnance Department.

Capt. Michalka is a graduate of Yoe High School of the Class of 1935 and after a post graduate course went to A & M College where he completed his work and received his degree in Mechanical Engineering. One of his courses at A & M was military science. After graduation he took a place with the Humble Oil & Refining Company and later became identified with the government as an inspector of Ordnance Materials and was stationed in St. Louis. As a reserve officer he was called to active duty on February 5, 1942, and was assigned to the Ordnance Department and was stationed at the Aberdeen, Maryland, proving grounds. In April of 1942, he went to Camp Forest, Tennessee.

NEW BUS LINE TO GIDDINGS APPROVED

The Chamber of Commerce here has been advised that the application of F. E. Jackson for a bus line permit from Cameron to Giddings through Rockdale, has been granted by the Texas Railroad Commission.

A formal order is expected to be issued within a few days, so advises E. A. Camp of Rockdale.

The Jackson Bus Lines asked for the permit to operate a bus from Cameron to Giddings some time ago.

The Jackson Bus Lines also has a permit to operate from Cameron to Camp Hood with no intermediate stops but their buses have been denied entrance to Camp Hood.

The action of the military authorities in barring the Jackson busses from Camp Hood has threatened to destroy the service, although no decision has been reached.

It was generally regarded here that the exclusion edict against the local line came through pressure from sources identified with other bus lines who are jealous of their investment.

The military authorities, while claiming they could not endorse any bus line, has merely discriminated against one of them.

5 NAZI PRISONERS ESCAPE CAMP HOOD

Five Nazi prisoners have escaped from North Camp Hood.

Officers in Cameron were notified of the escape and are on the lookout. The announcement of the escape was made by radio early Wednesday with few details.

Penalty for harboring or aiding an enemy prisoner to escape is death if a jury or federal court so assesses.

Officers here do not believe the prisoners have entered this area and were inclined to believe the men went direct to contacts and may now be in hiding with Nazi friends somewhere in Texas.

Sgt. Oliver Newton of Mississippi is home on a furlough.

ELIGIBLE WORKERS FOR FARMS TO REGISTER

All people in Milam county who will be available for farm work are urged to apply at the County Agent's office or at the Cameron Chamber of Commerce, according to J. W. Stafflebine, Jr., County Agent. This includes all men, women and children who, regardless of experience, will be available for work now or in the future.

This mobilization is in connection with the new farm labor program under the direction of the Texas Extension Service and Milam County farmers.

The farm labor problem has become very serious throughout the United States, and from all indications the labor shortage in Milam county will be acute by fall. It is the patriotic duty of every citizen, if he or she is not engaged in some kind of war work, to help reduce the manpower shortage which threatens success of the 1943 food production program.

The following farmers have been appointed community farm labor representatives and interested people are urged to contact them regarding the program:

Herbert Colburn of Yarrellton, Harold Denker of Fuchs, Joe Slavik of Marak, Edwin Fischer of Buckholts, B. G. Rice of Ben Arnold, W. A. McAttee of Burlington, W. W. Cox of Clarkson, Claude Ellison of Baileyville, J. B. Allen of Briary, W. A. Atkinson of Jones Prairie, J. C. Freeman of Maysfield, John A. Smith of Branchville, George Black of Hanover, H. H. Pruitt of Milano, John McLerran of Hoyte, A. L. Lucas of Rockdale, Herbert Menn of Bushdale, Edwin Charles of Traye, Will Davis of Sharp, M. M. Tech Sgt. William A. Lewis, 24, was killed by lightning at Sarasota, Florida, last night, according to wire information to The Daily Herald Thursday from Camp Martin.

Sgt. Lewis was the son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Lewis, Sr., of Route 1, Gause.

He is survived by his widow who lives at Gause.

The dispatch from Camp Martin said that more than eight hours of artificial respiration and the use of an inhalator were unsuccessful in an effort to revive Sgt. Lewis.

Sgt. Lewis graduated from Gause High School in 1935 and enlisted in the army in October 1940.

J. Albert Young, manager here, received the information early Wednesday and due to the limited time prior to the opening of the demonstrations here tomorrow, is making every effort to get the information to housewives this afternoon.

The schedule for Mrs. Mashburn takes her over a wide area in Central Texas.

The importance of dehydration in the matter of food conservation cannot be over estimated at this time. Housewives are urged to attend these demonstrations.

MOVING A CITY

Major General Humphrey M. Gale, British Chief of Allied Administrative Services in North Africa, says that the problem in connection with the Tunisian campaign was similar to moving a city the size of Baltimore thousands of miles and keeping it going under fire.

The bride wore a dark blue crepe suit with pink lace Dickey and a corsage of Gardenias. Her hat, shoes and other accessories were also dark blue. For good luck he wore in her shoe a gold dollar belonging to the groom's aunt, Miss Beth Jeter.

WOMAN IS RELEASED AFTER HEARING HERE

Helen Gertrude Mire was released from Milam county jail here Thursday after failure to establish evidence on which to hold her in connection with a swindle in which a Burlington woman lost $1500 in 1934.

Deputy Sheriff Carl Black went to New Orleans last Saturday and returned the woman to Cameron. She was in jail in New Orleans, on a narcotic charge but beat the case.

Mr. Black said information which enabled him to bring her to Cameron was obtained through the Federal Bureau of Investigation from the files of that organization in Kansas City. The entry said that she was wanted in Milam county for swindling. This information was sent to New Orleans and then relayed to officers here.

Mrs. Kathrine Witt in Burlington was induced to turn over $1500 to a woman in 1934 who represented herself as a fortune teller and able to foresee financial opportunities. The money obtained under these conditions was to be invested and fabulous returns were promised.

Shortly after Mrs. Witt turned over the money the woman disappeared and when she did not keep a return engagement Mrs. Witt reported the matter to L. L. Blaylock, then sheriff.

Mr. Blaylock, before his death, made an extensive investigation and went to a northern city and brought back a photograph of the woman held here. Mrs. Witt was unable to identify the woman.

Yesterday Mrs. Witt and others who saw the swindler came to Cameron but could not identify the woman held here. At the time of the swindle the woman gave her name as Gertrude Bradshaw. One of the names under which the woman here has been held is Mrs. J. W. Bradshaw.

The woman released here has a long police record. She claimed to have lived in North Carolina for the past 8 years.

Sheriff Blaylock, now deceased, was never able to bring the woman to trial.

All efforts were made here this week to connect the woman with the swindle. Criminal District Attorney Ed Gunn, having no authority to hold her longer, ordered her release.

WAR MEAT BOARD

A War Meat Board, consisting of nine members, with headquarters at Chicago, center of the nation's meat industry, will attempt to cut problems of supply.

The Department of Agriculture says that about a third of the meat supply is earmarked for Government use and that the meat rationing program predicted on availability of the remaining two-thirds for civilian use is disrupted because an estimated twenty per cent is taken out of regular distribution channels by black markets.

Miss Maurine Hollas visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hollas over the week end. She is employed by the Frost National Bank in San Antonio.

GOVERNMENT ROUTED BY LABOR RACKETEER

John L. Lewis had apparently emerged the big hero from the battle with President Roosevelt's War Labor Board Thursday and with his victory went the Little Steel Formula and coal miners are going to get $1.50 increase per day the compromise figure Lewis offered to the weak Washington government last week.

Growing resentment in the Congress over Lewis' flaunting of the government was threatening to lead to passage of a bill to lay severe penalties on strike promoters.

President Roosevelt would veto any measure directed at organized labor, especially if restrictions were imposed. The administration has lost face with the mass of American people but has played good politics.

John L. Lewis was the master. He broke the front and concluded a peace with the Central Mine Owners of Pennsylvania and got $1.50 per day increase for his miners. Other coal operators are expected to come through to meet Lewis' demands. The wage increase is almost 25 per cent over little steel formula.

Other labor groups are expected to get their loot from the vacated store house and the War Labor Board is expected to resign.

The Administration was charged everywhere Thursday with handling the coal strike as it has handled everything else, politics first and the nation second. Whenever political interests must be served any agency set up by the government where labor is concerned, is by-passed.

Now comes a report from North Africa that Crete, strongly fortified in the Mediterranean may be by-passed and an invasion through Greece effected.

If there is any war anywhere Thursday it could not be found.

John L. Lewis who may become President or Dictator after Roosevelt completes his four or fifth term, had just about kicked the slats out of everything in Washington. Some of the Senators are mad but in a few days they will settle back in their seats and let the wind out of their stomachs and loots will go on.

About the only hope we have is for a large enough number of American boys to get shipped overseas and read about strikes at home. Someday Johnny will come marching home, not only with a ballot but a bayonet as well.

F. B. RUSSELL, BELTON PUBLISHER IS DEAD

He served as president of the Belton Chamber of Commerce at one time and was president of the White Horse band for several years. He was an ex-member of the Lions club and the Rotary club. Mr. Russell was also a member of Belton Post No. 55, American Legion, having been a captain in the reserve in the last war, but was not called because he had a family.

MIDGET DAILY ENTERS UPON ITS FIFTH YEAR

The Midget Daily Herald has entered upon its fifth year of service to Cameron.

Established June 3, 1939 the little daily has served through 1236 days as momentous as any in the history of the world.

During the four years, with the exception of Sundays and national holidays, the Midget has reached the people to bring local and world news, quickly and accurately and in this respect has fulfilled the mission announced in the beginning.

It is for the people to say how much has been the measure of its service to them in representing the civic causes for which our community has striven. The Midget goes to you day by day. After a while it becomes a habit with you to expect it and perhaps many have lost sight of the very pressing efforts which time imposes upon us to get it to you. The scene has changed little. Each day we begin anew preparation for the issue of that day. The changing scene and the course of events make each day a distinct experience, a day unto itself. The labor and time which have gone into its making each day may never be justified financially, although The Midget had made money, the larger compensation came only in the thought of a job done well.

The Midget is unique in journalism. It is the only daily newspaper of its kind in the world, or enjoyed that distinction when established. If others have copied us we have not seen the print of it. The Midget has brought attention to Cameron otherwise impossible.

The Midget has offended as well as befriended. Its outspoken editorial policy makes it independent. It wouldn't be worth reading under any other banner. As long as the present publisher holds the reins The Midget will say pretty much what it chooses. On the other hand The Midget will be found, as it has always been found, serving the city and promoting good causes.

It is always difficult to know just how the little paper is appreciated. As it looks from this old typewriter at two fifteen and half, much must be taken for granted. There are no flowers.

We congratulate ourselves and so go on with the days work.

JITTER WAR GETS ON WITH USUAL HOKUM

General jitters continued in command Friday in the hokum war which finds British newspapers for the second time within the month trying to assure the world there is going to be an invasion of Europe.

This time it is to take place at several points at once. An invasion at even one point would help out a lot.

British warships are pounding Italian positions in the Mediterranean. The air war over Europe has tapered off.

The Chinese seem to be making some headway in the Yangtze valley.

Most of the blood was being spilled in Washington and at noon President Roosevelt and John L. Lewis were eyeing each other with suspicion.

MINERS SAY THEY ARE GOING TO OBEY LEWIS

Scattered reports at noon Friday indicated strongly that striking coal miners are going to obey John L. Lewis and not the President.

Mr. Roosevelt asked the men to return to work as he has done twice before. The miners indicate they will not return to work without a contract and some said they would rather wear a uniform than work without a contract.

The only solution to the problem is to pay the $2 a day wage increase and soak the public as is being done in every war industry in America today through the cost plus contracts.

Another solution which may not be attempted is the draft. Men who are fundamentally opposed to fighting in this war will work for smaller wages if they must choose.

From the White House came indications that the President has in mind several plans to force the miners back to work. A leading Virginia newspaper wants John L. Lewis arrested for treason.

Many who stand in the shadow of the White House and must obey know the truth. A vigorous exercise of executive power could end the strike and not only that could produce a contract for the miners and without surrender to Lewis. There are no men to replace the miners and unless they can be had the wage increase must be paid if the mines are operated.

The government, under war times has the power to force men to work. Politics is stronger than patriotism on the eve of a national election. So the American people may expect every possible means of persuasion to be exhausted and when that fails the government will capitulate to the demands of Lewis.

At least in two states draft boards were preparing to act. The President called attention to the draft law which permits re-classification of a registrant who has abandoned the grounds on which he was deferred.

Radio commentators said drafting of married men is about to begin. The usual procedure is to place all draft boards on notice to begin re-classification of married men with children and after they are placed in Class 1A orders will come through forbidding their induction. That has been the consistent policy of the Selective Service system. Millions of young men, single and without dependents, are enjoying fat war jobs in industry. You ask why? Well, it is very simple. They have Union cards.

Bob Burns said he liked the work the interior decorator did in his wife's home but he thought putting draw curtains over the rat holes was carrying things a little too far.

Miss Filipina Plachy who has been secretary at a large printing concern in Austin for several years, has returned home for a visit at the home at Marak. She plans to remain at home for some time.

Staff Sgt. Wilbert Dunham of Ft. Bliss is home visiting his parents and friends in Cameron.

ARGENTINE REVOLT IS SPREADING RAPIDLY

Revolt in Argentina, last of the large Western Hemisphere Republics, still on friendly terms with the Axis, was growing rapidly.

The fighting had assumed such proportions that some 8000 troops had joined the forces opposing the President who has held out against co-operation with the other countries of the west.

The revolt was taken to indicate that the country, predominantly anti-German may soon be allied with the Democracies.

Fighting has broken out in the streets of the capital. It first started in a mechanics school for naval airmen.

Ralph Michalka has been elected to the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce to fill vacancy created by the resignation of Dr. A. E. Kruse.

AMPHIBIOUS ATTACK MEANS MASS MIGHT

Winston Churchill in his first report on the progress of the war in the House of Commons made it plain that the United Nations mean to attack Germany by an invasion of the continent at the earliest possible moment and indicated that the time may be near to hand.

The Prime Minister said the attack would be amphibious, meaning by both land and sea and in the air thus bringing the might of allied arms into play in the most effective manner.

For some days the world has been waiting and generally commentators and newsmen have been saying the invasion is at hand. That it has not come and may not come this year, would indicate nothing to impeach Mr. Churchill for he is always careful to say as early as possible.

At the time of his war accounting in the House the Axis radio in Rome said that the British had been repulsed in an attempt to take a small island off the coast of Tunisia.

The German air force, said Mr. Churchill has been largely neutralized by constant reduction through losses in battle to the air fleets of England and America.

Italy was being attacked by air and by sea almost without let up and a report said that contingents of the RAF had been sent to North Africa to augment the now controlling united air forces.

Large contingents of American airmen are flying into the British Isles and their crews and maintenance equipment is arriving by ship.

The submarine menace in the Atlantic will be effectively dealt with in six months is the prediction.

Unless the present tension is abated by another excuse there should be some immediate advantage to the victories gained by the Allies in North Africa and the Pacific.

Mr. Churchill indicated that China may soon get the aid she needs to throw back the Japs. General Joe Stilwell in Burma, better known among his men as "Vinegar Joe" gave out a statement in which he promised an early change of things in that theatre.

Despite all the talk of invasion Washington was still spilling the blood in the war. Newspapers throughout the country are demanding settlement of the coal strike. The President may not act but his henchmen may find some way out even though the War Labor Board has to surrender and capitulate to the demands of John L. Lewis.

If the miners are granted their $2

a day wage increase it will be against public opinion and will open up the flood gates of demand from all groups of workers in America and will be the end of the Little Steel formula.

Sgt. Jeff Cammer, Jr. Suffers Broken Leg In Air Field Crash

Sgt. Jeff Cammer, Jr., is in a government hospital at Rock Island, Ill., recovering from injuries sustained recently in a plane wreck near there.

Sgt. Cammer, among other injuries sustained a broken leg. The accident details were not known here. Jeff Cammer, Sr., learned of his son's injuries when the field authorities communicated with him last week.

Later information came from Sgt. Cammer himself who is now able to walk with the aid of crutches and is planning to be home in a few days to complete his recuperation.

Mrs. Cammer, mother of Sgt. Cammer, has just returned from San Francisco, Calif., where she visited with her daughter, Mrs. Chas. Lay who is now the mother of a 9 pound baby boy. Mrs. Lay is the former Miss Dorris Cammer. The baby has been named Patrick to perpetuate a good Irish tradition in the family. He is the first grand child of the family.

Sgt. Cammer is a volunteer in the Air Corps. He went to Randolph Field and from there to Scott Field, St. Louis and finished up at Chanute Field, Ill. He was the first instructor in mechanics to reach Ellington Field when that camp was completed.

Several months ago he went to Augustana University at Rock Island, Ill., where he is an instructor. The school faculty is composed of a number of Commissioned Officers and 12 Sergeants of which Sgt. Cammer was one.

GRAND JURY CONVENES

The Grand Jury for the May term District Court convened early Monday but could not function due to the absence of one of its members.

The jury was expected to begin investigations before the day was over or possibly by Tuesday.

70 WAR FRONTS

There are more than seventy American expeditionary forces scattered over the face of the globe, declares Colonel J. Robert Ginsburgh, of the Industrial Services Division of the War Department. He says that casualties occur at the rate of nearly 5,000 a month. This includes killed, wounded and captured.

Mrs. Ella Dobbins who has been visiting her brother, Wm. R. Rogers and sister, Mrs. Jeff T. Kemp, has returned to her home in Waco.

CALLS CONFERENCE OF LABOR LEADERS TODAY

President Roosevelt of whom spokesman said Thursday, is not a baiter of the workers but a "friend of labor" was being lambasted openly by the press and by members of the Senate and the House in Washington for his failure to deal with the coal strike.

It was agreed that John L. Lewis had outmaneuvered the President and due to his control over a half million or more of coal miners was due to force his demands or else.

Lt. Governor John Lee Smith of Texas, is in the coal fields observing. In a telegram to the Dallas News Wednesday he said the miners have no hesitancy in saying they are going to obey Lewis and will have no part with "Roosevelt and those politicians."

Like the Youth Movement which the President and his wife encouraged, the CIO had become a problem. The President finally had to dress down the youngsters at their convention in Washington when they marched to the White House in a trance of communism.

Mr. Roosevelt, one time friend of John L. Lewis, encouraged his activities with the CIO. Now Mr. Lewis is in control and won't listen.

One of the Local Draft Boards in Nashville, Tennessee, sent a telegram to the Governor of that state declaring they will induct no more men into the armed services unless strikes are stopped.

In the Senate and House, farm block leaders, said they would not go along with the President any further if the miners get their $2 a day raise.

The situation is difficult. Politicians, even the President cannot deal harshly with labor. There is no authority to make men work but they can be drafted into the armed services. In World War No. 1 President Wilson stopped strikes in short order when draft boards began to reclassify men on strike. Such a policy of course will not be adopted in this war. Labor is too powerful.

The President called a conference early Wednesday with representatives of the War Labor Board, American Federation of Labor and the CIO leaders.

It was said the President may call on the men to go back to work by next Monday under a truce, the third since the trouble developed in the pits. The miners of course would get pay for the time they lost while on strike.

Not that it matters much, but British newspapers are again saying that an invasion of Europe is imminent. Italy is expecting a landing on Pantelleria, Sicily and Sardinia. New convoys have reached the Mediterranean, say Axis sources.

The Germans are reinforcing their armies in Russia. In a great air battle on Kursk the Germans lost 125 planes while employing some 500 in a grand scale operation against the Russians.

The Chinese were making advances in what looks like a major defeat for the Japs.

Hugh T. Chambers is In Hospital on Staten Island in New York

Hugh T. Chambers, reported Saturday to have been wounded in action and in a hospital in North Africa, may not be wounded in action and is in an army hospital in New York.

Geraldine Chambers, sister of Hugh T. Chambers, better known here as Truett Chambers, brought a letter to the Herald early Monday to correct the published story of several days ago.

The letter was from Lt. Col. Kenneth M. Kahn at Halloran Hospital on Staten Island in New York. The letter said that Hugh Chambers had been received there for treatment and observation. It was believed he may have been ill or suffered a recurrence of a paralytic condition suffered since reaching North Africa.

Chambers left Camp Crowder, Mo., and the next heard from him he had landed in England. From there he went to North Africa.

Yesterday Mrs. Maudie Chambers received a letter from her son from the New York Hospital. He did not mention the nature of his illness. He paid his respects to strikers and to John L. Lewis. He said he had lived in hell every since reaching North Africa and was glad to be back in the states. He has been in the army less than a year.

Mrs. R. C. Hudson, former Miss Frances House of Chicago, is expected home sometime Saturday, June 5. She will be here about 15 days to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hause.

Mr. Faulkner volunteered for the navy and was assigned to duty in the Pacific.

Air Drama Tells New Air War Story

The motion picture screen has been prophetic in the past. But never before has the gift of prophecy on the screen caught up with actual events so quickly and dramatically as in the new United Artists release, "One of Our Aircraft Is Missing," which Alexander Korda will present for its local premiere at the Cameron Theatre on Saturday, June 12, with Eric Portman, Hugh Williams, Godfrey Tearle and George Withers featured in the cast.

In the Headlines

Today's headlines are filled with stern Nazi warnings to the people of Holland not to assist in any invasion thrust into the Netherlands. The occupation authorities have barred access to the Dutch coast, have moved key German offices inland and have carried out a series of executions and seizures of prominent Dutchmen as hostages to check sabotage. Furthermore, this warning was broadcast to the Dutch populace: "All will remember the events which took place when some bailed-out British fliers were helped by the population with money and clothes and were sheltered, which resulted in the death sentence against the Dutch helpers."

Strange as it may seem, at least one year before these burning headlines were written and broadcast, "One of Our Aircraft Is Missing" went into production to tell the world on the screen the story of six RAF fliers who were forced to bail out in Holland and who were assisted by the smooth-running, cleverly-oiled machinery of the Dutch underground. "One of Our Aircraft Is Missing" was written, produced and directed by Michael Powell and Emeric Pressburger. The film was made with the co-operation and advice of the Air Ministry, the Admiralty and the War Office. Many of the scenes in Holland are based on actual secret information received by the Royal Netherlands Government Information Bureau in London.

Adventure-Packed Plot

The story of "One of Our Aircraft Is Missing" starts with adventure and thrills in the first reel. A Wellington Bomber, marked "B for Bertie," comes flying home across the North Sea with not one of the crew on Board. "B for Bertie" has returned—but what has happened to the crew?

There drama-packed story unfolds in Holland where the six RAF fliers have been forced to bail out after having hit their target in Germany, and where they are welcomed by a band of simple, democratic folks who are grimly fighting the terrorism, arrogance and fury of the Nazi horror.

Hardy Family to Bring New Picture To Cameron Thursday

The Hardy Family gets together again to send Mickey Rooney off to college in "Andy Hardy's Double Life," at the Cameron Theatre Thursday and Friday July 10 and 11. And Mickey gets into comical complications galore before he's more or less safely on the train—delighted to see that a pretty coed from the same college is aboard.

The story deals with three dilemmas for Andy Hardy before his departure for college. He sells his jalopy to a pal, who damages a greenhouse with it, and Andy is held responsible by the owner because the car is not paid for completely. Then a pretty girl makes a fuss over him, and insists that his romantic behavior means a proposal of marriage. Also his father wants to go to college with him and introduce him to his friend the president, which Andy knows would make him an outcast with "the fellows," but he hates to tell his father this.

His difficulties are ironed out amid laughter, some human interest moments, and an inspiring "man to man" talk with his father.

Mickey plays his role with infectious humor and Lewis Stone as Judge Hardy is inspiring. Fay Holden as "Ma" Hardy, Cecilia Parker as sister Marian and Sara Haden as Aunt Milly add to the humor, and contribute human interest. A new charmer is introduced in Esther Williams, famous as a swimming champion, who is beautiful and an accomplished actress. William Lun-

ALL INDICATIONS ARE ITALY WILL GET BLOW

At noon Monday the general consensus of opinion throughout the world, even in the Axis countries, pointed to an early invasion of the continent.

Italy, called the soft under belly of the Axis, by Winston Churchill, was believed to be the first to feel the Allied invasion blow.

Invasion talk, current for some time, had died away Monday as all commentators concluded it was about to occur and awaited the first move.

Some thought it would come to Islands in the Mediterranean while a lesser number thought the Allies would strike boldly across the channel. If the invasion does not come within a few days the reaction will be as it has been at other times when it seemed imminent. The people have accepted the failure as a necessary wait until preparations could be made.

The United Nations now have over a million men in North Africa with 400,000 of them seasoned fighting men.

Bombings of Axis positions in the Mediterranean continued without let up Monday as tension grew to the breaking point.

Hitler was credited with a German propaganda report that the United Nations plan to enter Spain. This was taken to indicate that Hitler may march on Spain to choke off the Straits of Gibraltar.

The German offensive in Russia has not developed. Summer is come and the great war in the Soviet republic has reached a stalemate. What will happen when the invasion comes (if it comes) is not clear. Presumably the strategy would be a Russian offensive at the same time.

Japan is expected to stage some sort of new offensive action.

Important developments are looked for within the next few days and perhaps hours.

This is the third year in which an invasion has been talked. It has not yet occurred.

The coal strike is not regarded as settled. On June 22, John L. Lewis will call the miners out again. Complacency in the strike situation is the same spirit that has delayed telling action in the war.

BUCKHOLTS BOY GETS MEDAL; MARRIES ALL IN SAME DAY

Seattle—The events of this week end ought to satisfy even a Texan whose name is Hurry.

Yesterday, Sgt. Troy Hurry, 24, of Rt. 2, Buckholts, and a comrade were presented with soldiers' medals for the rescue of a civilian from Puget Sound last winter.

Today, Hurry planned to marry Miss Phyllis Stanard of Port Angeles, Washington.

Cpl. Frank Chernosky, now stationed at Fort Bliss, El Paso, in the United States Cavalry, was in Cameron Saturday visiting with friends. He is home on leave for a few days. His home is at Ben Arnold. He is a volunteer in the service.

DAY BY DAY Things We Want To Say

THE PRESIDENT MUST ACT NOW

A complication of the coal situation is that public opinion is now aroused against a compromise concession to the miners. Thus, while operators and miners may only be "fifty cents apart" in a monetary sense, the pressure of public thought is all against closing that gap while the miners hold a shotgun threateningly against essential war production.

Moreover, can the Administration give in to the miners and still insist on "holding the line" with other unions?

There is little use in recapitulating the series of ill-timed aggressions on the part of John L. Lewis, the indecisions and waverings of the Administration, or the anomalous role of the operators. The dilemma is acute. It requires immediate solution.

Three general courses are open. First, is to give in to the miners. This would regain coal production; but it threatens great damage to the fight against inflation. The greater good of the greater number weighs against this course.

Secondly, the President may appeal again to the patriotism of the miners, asking them to return to work over the orders of their union, talking strong but acting softly. This course failed once.

So, the third course remains. We can appreciate President Roosevelt's reluctance to break with his liberal leanings (and he "has supped at labor's table"), for our own views over a long period have been strongly against coercion of workers. But in the present instance it is vividly clear the United States, for reasons of survival, cannot be hampered in its crucial war effort by a stoppage of coal supplies.

The War Labor Board's order to end the bargaining between the union and the operators until the miners go back to work is consistent with the past policy of the Board in cases where labor violated its no strike pledge. But it has been hard to understand the usefulness of the bargaining, when the "Little Steel" formula prevents operators from acceding to Mr. Lewis' demand for $2 a day more. It appears stronger measures are needed.

If the union leaders and the miners insist on living in their own wonderland where all things of the earth revolve around their own hardships and where they can imperil a great nation, simply because they want a little more money to exempt them from some of the sacrifices of war; and if they persistently close their eyes to the evils that threaten to swoop on them from outside, demolishing in an instant their cherished gains, the Nation has no time now to attempt to educate them.

For their own protection, and that of the Nation, the President must now act as forcefully as his wartime powers permit to dispel this miasma of selfishness, this mist of delusion, this cloud of reckless irresponsibility toward a truly liberal and progressive world. If this means arrests, draftings, martial law, and similarly stern measures, so it must be—Christian Science Monitor.

Jos. Slavik Returns From Omaha Meeting

Jos. Slavik, Sr., of Marak, has just returned to Texas from a convention of the Catholic Workmen held in Omaha, Nebraska.

Mr. Slavik was a delegate and one of seven from the entire state of Texas. The Catholic Workmen, an insurance order, meets every four years. The next convention will meet in Cedar Rapids, Ohio.

On the way Mr. Slavik traveled across Oklahoma and Kansas. He says Texas is still the best place on earth and no country he saw compared with the Lone Star State.

Mr. Slavik saw at first hand the devastating effects of the Missouri River flood which hit the area at Omaha and spread over a wide portion of the states of Nebraska and Missouri. Residents there said it was the most destructive flood within their memory.

Mrs. Jerry B. Valka of Corpus Christi is here visiting her father, Cyril Plachy and family at the old home near Marak. She plans to return to her home at Corpus Saturday. Her husband is in the civil service and stationed at the great naval base at Corpus Christi. The city has grown rapidly under war conditions and many changes have taken place.

Price Cross who has been in North Africa in an accountants office for two months, has arrived in the United States, and has visited relatives in Cameron the past week.

Cameron Couple Wed in Ceremony At Grand Prairie

The marriage of Mary Louise LaCook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. LaCook, and Lawrence M. Lewis of Austin was solemnized at the Catholic church in Grand Prairie on Thursday, May 27, at 6 a. m. by Rev. Mish, pastor. Both are employed at North American Aviation in Grand Prairie.

The bride wore a pale pink crepe dress made in two piece style with the yoke of the jacket trimmed in smocking. Her hat and gloves were pale blue, and she carried a white prayer book topped with a corsage of gardenias and stock. Misses Judy and Jean Akers of Dallas, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Akers of Cameron, were bridesmaids and Mrs. Keal of Avon Village was matron of honor.

These attendants wore blue frocks with pink carnation corsages.

Rommie Sline of Dallas served as best man.

TRACY H-D CLUB

All members were present when the club met with the president, Mrs. Joe Calhoun on May 26th.

After a business meeting, the agent, Miss Dorothy Porter, was aided by Mrs. Berenice Charles in conducting a poultry quiz.

Each member was given a "Trouble Shooting Chart for Diseases of Poultry" by Geo. P. McCarthy and W. A. Boney, Jr., and Miss Porter taught us how to use the chart to the best advantage.

We are sure these charts will be beneficial in raising chickens and turkeys.

One of the greatest mistakes made in poultry raising is over crowding. From 9 to 12 inches or roosting space is needed per hen and one foot of feeder space for each hen.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. R. B. McDavid on June 16th. Program on "Care of Possessions." Everyone is invited.

Staff Sgt. Charles Manning of El Paso is home for a 11 day furlough.

The Verdict of the Years is Satisfaction

"TIME TRIED AND FIRE TESTED"

Insurance is not an Expense—It is an Investment in Security!

For more than two years most of us have realized that it was absolutely essential that this Nation should pass some legislation to control the recklessness of certain labor leaders who have seen in the present world crisis an opportunity to "feather their nest." Each time we have tried to act, there has been great hue and cry to the effect that Congress was about to "destroy the rights of free labor." This cry has been nothing more than smoke screen. No one has desired to injure the loyal, patriotic workers who make up the bulk of the labor unions of this Nation, but a relatively small number of leaders, who are personally getting rich out of the fees they charge American workers, have been making as much noise as a pack of coyotes on a cold morning. None of them have pointed out just how the proposed legislation would actually hurt any honest working man or just how in the absence of legislation they were going to carry out the promises that these leaders have all repeatedly made that "there will be no strikes during war time." Every citizen knows that the unions have failed ignobly to carry out the no-strike pledge. Evidently the union leaders are either incapable or unwilling to keep their pledge. If they are sincere and want to keep their word but simply can't do so, they should welcome the help of the government. If they are insincere and are deliberately violating their pledge as John L. Lewis is admittedly doing, then all honest and patriotic labor leaders should want the government to control him not only to protect our Nation but to protect the good name of organized labor itself. Certainly organized labor cannot expect to continue to hold the public confidence and support and at the same time prove itself untrustworthy to the Nation in time of war.

True—it is said that labor unions are voluntary organizations, and it is no affair of the government whether their internal affairs are conducted honestly or not. The same contention was made in regard to political parties, but the courts all hold that government has a right and a duty to see that their primary elections are honestly conducted. The same thing was said of banks, but the courts all hold that the public should not be forced to suffer the losses of irresponsible banking, and all banks must submit statements of their financial conditions regularly. Does not the public have more interest today in the responsibility of the United Coal Mines than in the solvency of the First National Bank? And as to being true voluntary organizations: — at how many government war plants can an American citizen get a job without belonging to a union? You don't have to belong to a union if you don't want to work, but if you are to do your part in a defense plant, you don't have much chance without paying union dues. Doesn't it seem reasonable that the union should be required to account for the dues it collects?—And yet the head of one of the great labor organizations of this land stated just a few days ago that if any of the Members of Congress should be so presumptuous as to vote for such controls of labor unions that all of the resources of his great organization would be used to bring about that Member's defeat.

Well, this afternoon I voted against this leader's orders. I did not vote to hurt labor, but I voted to protect America in her hour, of peril. If I am defeated as a result, I will have the satisfaction of knowing that I helped pass some of the regulations that have been long over due. The bill that was passed by a vote of 231 to 141 by the House this afternoon was, of course, a compromise. It was just what I would have written, and it is definitely helpful. It is much stronger than the bill the Senate sent us. In addition to giving definite legal status to the National War Labor Board, which John L. Lewis now refuses to recognize, and conferring specific power on the Board to compel the attendance of Mr. Lewis or anyone else, and in addition to clarifying the President's powers in regard to strike-bound plants, the bill as passed applies to labor unions exactly the same provisions of law that now prohibit corporations from making political contributions; it provides for the registration of labor organizations to file reports in regard to their fees, expenditures, etc. It requires reports as to the elections of officers. It requires a 30-day cooling period before any strike can be called, and then only after a secret ballot of the employees of the plant. The provisions of the bill terminate six months after the end of the war. Personally I can see no reason for not writing permanent legislation. These, my friends, are the "terrible, un-American shackles" which some labor leaders and racketeers have turned Congress proposed to "fasten on the hands of toil." I have yet to meet a man who will say that these regulations are going to hurt him. As a matter of fact, they will hurt no one who is trying to do right. The bill is now back with the Senate. We can only hope that that body will prove its sincerity by passing it without weakening amendments.

Victory Council is Part of Human Chain In War Time Work

The Milam County Victory Council is a part of the huge "human chain system of communication" set up by the A & M College Extension Service to receive and to transmit information. The links in this county chain are 78 Community Victory Leaders and 363 Neighborhood Victory leaders.

The Clarkson Community with Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Cox as Community Leaders, and Mrs. Gus Jahns, Gus Pimplar, Mrs. Fred Lambert, Miss Nora Kohring, John Matyastik and Mrs. John Blasienz have served to bring important information to the 90 families within their boundaries. When sugar rationing began in 1942, Mr. Cox arranged with the ration board to take applications for canning sugar in the community. Neighborhood leaders helped in this work, saving the time, tires and gasoline of people needing the sugar and speeding up the work of issuing the sugar certificates.

In co-operation with the scrap drive, the leaders set a day for all scrap to be brought to a central place. These leaders contacted all families with instructions regarding scrap. When a second drive was conducted, they again co-operated, but the first drive had been so successful that little was found.

Victory leaders again saw every family with the "share the meat" program and received a 100 per cent assurance of co-operation.

The community leaders then arranged for a community meeting for a demonstration by the County Home Demonstration Agent on meat alternates.

Recently the Red Cross drive was conducted through the council and the Clarkson quota was over subscribed.

The rest-pause that refreshes
Welcome in peace...
more welcome in war work

WAR plant managers will tell you that anything that contributes to contented workers makes better workers. In plant after plant it has been found that a rest-pause breaks monotony, lessens tiredness and tension.

When you add refreshment to a rest-pause, you not only have a pause that rests, but refreshes, too. A moment for ice-cold Coca-Cola makes a rest-pause take on more meaning... promoting contentment that leads to more work and better work. Yes, contentment comes when you connect with a Coke.

Close work brings the need to pause. Ice-cold Coca-Cola brings tingling refreshment to make any pause the pause that refreshes.

The best is always the better buy!

Letters from plant managers from coast to coast emphasize that the little moment for an ice-cold Coca-Cola means a lot to workers in war plants. It's a refreshing moment on the sunny side of things... a way to turn to refreshment without turning from work.

That's the way most electric company men got their start. It's the American way. And it works.

It works so well that the electric companies under experienced business management were able to push power production up and up—to supply war plants with far more electric power than any nation has ever known before—and at low rates.

The same business system that is helping to win the war today will also enrich the peace—when air freighters are delivering radios and refrigerators—instead of block-busters!

To THE wide-eyed boy beside him, this Fortress pilot ranks with Superman.

One look at the instrument panel and you feel the same way. It's hard to believe that ordinary mortals could ever master that maze of dials, buttons, levers and switches.

But you Americans are doing it with deadly efficiency. Ask Adolf, Benito or Tojo. And they don't learn their jobs just by reading a book. It takes intensive training and practical experience.

The electric power business is like that. You can't make kilowatt-hours with theories. You've got to learn how—by growing up in the business.

COAL STRIKE ENDS AS THIRD TRUCE ARRANGED

The coal strike is ended for the present and miners are to return to the pits on Monday.

John L. Lewis averted a showdown again by asking the men to return to their jobs but fixed the date for the next walkout at June 22. At that time the miners will walk out because they have no contract.

Saturday big-wig administration leaders settled back in their arm chairs and let the wind out of their stomachs. They had been saved and John L. Lewis has been saved. The boys on the battle front were let down for a week but that doesn't matter. The political front is still intact but shorn of some of its dignity as the House of Representatives blazed away with a strong anti-strike bill.

The President's administration will defeat the bill, already in the Senate. Labor must not be required to co-operate.

The government and the mine owners have 17 days now in which to work out a contract for the miners. Will it be done? No! The strike is a stage on which a play goes on. The people must be entertained. The politicians and labor racketeers must get the spotlight. The suckers in the audience will applaud because they have no better sense.

To get on with the war the world learned that Winston Churchill, British Prime Minister arrived back in London Saturday from a conference with Allied commanders in North Africa. Now everybody is certain there will be a fight.

There was no punch pulling on the Eastern front. The Reds were wading in to the Germans. On the Mediterranean the Americans kept up their bombings of Italy.

Generally throughout the world there was confusion and indecision.

ULTIMATUM FOR SURRENDER REFUSED

Invasion of Italy, even by island degrees, may have already begun.

The Island of Pantelleria early Wednesday was brought under siege and London said landings by allied troops may have already begun.

Earlier on Wednesday the forces of the United Nations began their assault on the island. An ultimatum was sent the Italian commander on the island demanding its surrender.

The Axis command on Pantelleria declined to surrender and although there were no details, it was assumed here that the British and perhaps American forces had moved in for the capture.

The pattern of attack was heavy air force action. At the same time Sicily and Sardinia were heavily bombed and great damage done to land installations as well as ships in the several harbors.

Axis reports for several days had said that landings on a smaller island off Tunisia had been repulsed.

The United Nations had made no mention of this operation but London confirmed the attack on Pantelleria which may now be well under siege with fighting going on by land, sea and air. It was not known what strength the Axis have on the Island. Its strategic value was considered important enough to involve a large scale action if need be to reduce it.

Early reports indicated the Italians are putting up a stiff fight to hold the island.

Refusal of the garrison to surrender may indicate the Italians intend to fight to the end. If so the United Nations will win the war in the proper way by exterminating as many Italians and Germans and Japs as possible and bring home the war to these criminal peoples who have set the world flame.

Over on the Eastern front the Red army broke up a German land and air attack.

There was considerable air activity in the Pacific.

Aside from the operations involved in the attack on Pantalleria there still was no movement to prove invasion of the continent direct.

Leo Harris of Rockdale was in Cameron Friday.

War Work of a Santa Fe Wheat Car

This statement explains why many Santa Fe box cars, built to move wheat during harvest season, are many miles away doing other war jobs:

★ This year an estimated 75,000,000 bushels of wheat must be moved by the Santa Fe from the wheat states it serves.

It will take about 50,000 carloads to handle Santa Fe's big share of this vital job!

To move wheat and other grains, Santa Fe has specially built weatherproof box cars—but today, many of these cars are far from the wheat belt. Where are they? What are they doing? The map above will give you an idea—it shows the movement of a wheat car for the past four months.

A Wheat Car Gets Around

Starting at Hutchinson, Kansas, with a load of flour for Boston, this wheat car has been kept rolling with vital war cargoes, including Army shoes, Army clothing, aluminum, lumber, machinery, and has just delivered a warload at San Francisco . . . far from the wheat belt where it is needed now! In four months this car has covered 1,439 miles on Santa Fe rails, and 9,749 miles on the other railroads. No rest for a war worker these days, but a fellow sure gets around!

Every Car in Action

Every Santa Fe box car, as well as box cars of all other railroads, is in action today. Some of these cars are too far away to be able to return to the wheat belt in time for use.

But guided by the wise direction of the Association of American Railroads, the Office of Defense Transportation, and the Interstate Commerce Commission's Bureau of Service, plus the friendly cooperation of the Army and Navy and war freight shippers, Santa Fe is making every effort to secure as many cars as can be spared from war movements to handle this year's wheat harvest.
